The New Las Vegas Leaper: Ok, this is so brilliant and so simple! Basically, you do the original PH routine with some new touches and add a whole new twist for the ending. You'll kick yourself for not having thought of it!

You count 10 cards for you, and 10 for the spectator (who places their group in their back pocket). Pretend to magically send one through the air over to the spectator. Count them - one has VANISHED! But wait - repeat the trick two more times, each time having a card disappear! Then ask the spectator to count the cards that were in their back pocket. They now have three additional cards!

The kicker? You then count a number of dollar bills (or five's, twenty's, etc.). Pantomime sending one over to them. Repeat the count, and one is GONE! They can even hold the bills and do the counting themselves. Tell them to check their back pocket. Inside their pocket, they find the missing bill!

This gets a HUGE reaction!
