Don't want to learn complex card moves? The diagonal palm shift got you down? Be magical the easy way, with Spellebrity! A spelling principle that can be easily customized to fit any situation.

First imagine being able to have a spectator select a random card from a stack of shuffled celebrity names. Then the spectator spells out the celebrity name as they deal down, and to their amazement, they find their selection!

- No forcing!

- No markings used.

- Spectators freely shuffle the cards.

- Use a normal deck or business cards.

- Instantly reset and repeat with different selections every time.

Now imagine using the same principle with playing cards. Two spectators freely choose a card, and when a card is spelled out, both cards are instantly found. You genuinely do not know either spectator's cards, and yet you are able to control the outcome every time. You can then repeat the effect immediately with two completely different cards - it's as automatic, as it is impossible.

It comes complete with 3 routines, utilizing different methods, from sleight free to advanced, for all skill levels, where you're so far ahead of your spectators that it's almost unfair.

A self-working effect that is as simple as ABC, this is Nikolas Mavresis' Spellebrity!
