Little Windows by Tybbe Master

Some of the change effect where the spectator can choose a card randomly and can be signed.

Then the card can be lost in the deck of cards, and we take a special card in a small window that we made which can also be checked beforehand. We also take a random card then cover it with a window card leaving a little face in the window and which is not the spectator's card.

With a little flick, the card changes into the spectator's choice card and can be directly checked by the spectator. The signed card or the window card...
