Free Arrow by Himitsu Magic

Here's an effect that excites audiences!

Your spectator first selects an item on the table, or selects a card. Then, the spectator can transmit through their mind, and the pointer instantly points to the item or card that they selected. The pointer will stop at a certain position during the movement, and then open precisely at the selected item. In addition, the roles can be exchanged -- the audience member thinks about their card, and tries to mentally send it to the pointer. After opening, the inside of the pointer shows the very card that was selected!

The inspiration for this product comes from street magic -- we wanted the audience to experience a very strong visual effect as well as mentalism.
