

Starheart Presents Prometheus by Kelvin Chad

Here's the coolest way to hand over your business card that no one will ever forget!

Prometheus, created by Kelvin Chad and Starheart, is an amazing tool that instantly ignites business cards, cards, bills, and more and delivers them to your audience.

There have been a lot of similar tools out there. Because delivering a business card to an audience on fire is an unforgettable shock for everyone. It's the perfect business maker, and it leaves a lasting impression on anyone involved, which can be the difference between winning and losing business. So, while there have been several similar tools, they've been too big, uncomfortable to use, dangerous, or impractical.

But now Prometheus has solved all of these problems! It's the smallest, easiest to use, safest, and most importantly, very practical. Plus, it allows you to do something never possible before: pull a business card out of your pocket on fire!

Imagine that! You can pull a business card out of your pocket or phone case on fire!

It's visually shocking and perfect for grabbing the attention of any audience. Perhaps the business card delivered via Prometheus will be the one you'll remember the longest! You get all the components you need, plus a detailed instructional video from Kelvin Chad himself. The video goes beyond just effects and includes enough maneuvers to give you a good idea of how to safely work with fire itself.

Prometheus Features

- Offers a wide range of effects
- Slim design
- Ignites in your pocket and can be taken out
- Attaches to your existing phone case
- Works with all phones
- MagSafe compatible ring included
- Extremely safe as the ignition is out of reach

- Powerfully practical
- A tool you'll want to carry with you every day!