

Sword Thru Head

Show a wooden chest with sliding doors in the front and back. Put the chest around blindfolded spectator's head and remove both the doors so that all can clearly see spectator's head inside the box and close the doors. Several swords are thrust from all the angles through the sides of the box. Remove the front door to show the spectators head has completely vanished and the inside the chest is seen to be crisscrossed with swords. There seems to be no room to conceal anything between the swords. The front panel is now reinserted and all the daggers are removed. Finally both the doors are again removed to show that the spectator's head is completely unharmed, the chest is pulled off the spectators head!

This is one of the most popular illusions of all times!
