

Just that - Ultimate

The magician tells the audience that in his pocket he has a prediction. He then asks a spectator to select a card from a deck, without showing it to him. Next the magician takes out of his pocket a face down card saying that on it there is the chosen card. He turns it over and... there are all the 52 cards of the deck printed on it! The audience will start laughing understanding that the magician is joking. As soon as the spectator names his card though, the magician rubs his fingers on the printed prediction, and one card turns face down... and it is exactly the chosen one. In fact its face is now visible on the other side of the prediction card.

The audience will stop laughing and start clapping!

- The regular deck of cards is not included.
