

Prediction Metamorphosis

A card is selected, and the magician says to the spectator "I have a prediction of your card"

He shows the prediction card and "Your card" is written on its back!

After this gag, he shows the real prediction on the other side... but it is wrong!

After a moment of embarrassment, he throws the prediction card in the air, and when he catches it, the correct card is now written on the back, and on the face of the card the spectator's selection has appeared.

A great double climax!

- Easy to do
- Bicycle gimmick