

Crazy Farm by Marcos Cruz

The magician shows a board with a picture of a farm. He opens the board and shows that there is a little penguin inside. He closes the board and after a moment the penguin begins to peek out from the sides of the board. The children in the audience will burst into hearty laughter. Then the magician opens the board and shows that the penguin is now grown to become huge! After this surprise, the penguin will continuously change color from black to red and vice versa... many times. The children will make a noise noticing that it is the magician who turns over the penguin which has a different color on its back! The magician will then openly turn the penguin around and, as a second surprise, a giraffe is seen on the other side!

Now as a third surprise, the magician turns the giraffe around and on the other side there will no longer be a penguin, but a goat!

But that's not all, as to finish, the magician turns the goat around and behind, as a final surprise, there will no longer be a giraffe... but a chicken!

A very entertaining effect that will drive the children crazy!
