Child's Play by Julio Montoro

Imagine having any named card drawn by a child as a prediction.

You introduce a prediction card that has been drawn by a child. Now you ask the spectator to name ANY random card from the deck. It does not matter which card they name; it will always match perfectly with the child's card.

Child's Play was created many years ago and it has been part of my lecture for a while. Now, I've decided to release it in a set where everything comes included, so you just need to customize it with your own drawings (to match your favorite stack) and have it ready to perform.

The coolest thing about Child's Play is that both cards are always in full view. There are no sneaky moves. The faces of both cards are fully shown.

See the full uncut performance to understand how cool Child's Play is!

Credits: Big credits to our friend Roddy McGhie and his "Predicshuns" effect. After watching Julio's trick in Málaga, Roddy and Julio found out that they were two independent creations and different enough to be separate releases.
