

Stubborn Dice by Tora Magic

The magician shows, on the table, two pyramids each composed of four stacked dice of different sizes. He asks for the help of a spectator and both cover their pyramid with a parallelepiped. Then they lift everything in their hands and turn it upside down. Once the parallelepiped has been removed, the magician will always have the pyramid oriented in the same direction, from the largest dice to the smallest. The spectator, on the other hand, will always have the pyramid... upside down!

- Perfect for all types of audiences.
