

The End by Juan Pablo

The End

is a magic effect that is ideal to end a close-up, parlor or stage magic show.

The idea is that after you perform the last trick in your routine, you stop for a moment to say that there is something you want to say but that you are going to say it in a magical way... at that moment you take a handkerchief out of your pocket and as you unfold it, on the face of the handkerchief is written "THIS IS...," and as you blow on the handkerchief, visually and magically, the letters change and now The End appears written on the face of the handkerchief, announcing the end of the show!

In addition, if you prefer, you can produce a flower from the handkerchief as an extra bonus.

The End is a very practical effect that you will carry in a pocket. It's easy to do and resets in seconds.
