

Animal Mistake by Twister Magic

A Collection of Kids' Favorite Animals!

Imagine a magical piece of paper that becomes really, really big... filled with colorful pictures of kids' favorite animals. Now imagine that these pictures transform into each other every time you open the paper. That's why kids love Animal Mistake. And that's why they scold you for every mistake you make and laugh out loud at the grand finale.

"Do dreams come true?" You ask the audience as you hold up an envelope with a prediction.

Then a child chooses an animal picture from a small coloring book. You open the envelope and proudly show off an illustration of a rabbit. The kids tell you that you're just wrong.

Every time you open the paper, it gets bigger and the illustration magically changes. The audience sees the rabbit transform into a puppy, which grows into a dachshund, which grows into a seal, which grows into a chicken, and then into a stork.

Every time you insist that the prediction is correct... every time the children yell at you that you made a mistake "It should be an elephant!"

Make a joke about storks, long ago people thought they delivered babies. Open the last part of the giant paper and show that the stork is actually carrying a baby elephant!

Luis Zavaleta and Professor Otto from Peru based this routine on Dick Stoner's "Grave Mistake". Children love watching the paper grow as it unfolds, revealing a new animal each time.

You get:

A pre-folded, large animal prediction (23 x 15 inches / 57 x 39 cm), printed on high quality paper and plastic coated on both sides for extra durability.

A special Svengali coloring book full of animals, which allows you to easily force the elephant.
