

Animal photographer

A new kind of mental magic performed using a zoo map. The magician guesses the animal that the audience has photographed with a miniature camera without any clues.

The magician knows which animal the audience has chosen due to the clever tricks of the tool. You don't have to memorize any rules or verbalize the audience. The tools can be handed over at the end, and they are so elaborately made that you can't tell the secrets even if you give them a gimmick. The map can be folded in three, making it easy to carry. It comes with a plastic case or envelope to store your tools.
